

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR WEB-BASED VENTURE REPORTING

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for web-based venture reporting. The web-based venture reporting system allows for secure distribution of venture related information, including financial reports, mission statements, and business strategies to loaning institutions, investors, officers, and others having interest in the venture in a convenient and attractive manner. The system includes client computers accessing a server computer, which supports venture reporting websites directed to individual ventures. The server computer of the venture reporting system can support a plurality of disparate venture reporting websites for unrelated ventures. The web-based venture reporting system can be configured to be managed by a superset administrator who has access to all venture websites whereas individual venture websites are also managed by venture managers.
